

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A thin portable device having high strength. The portable device includes a portable device body for 5 accommodating an electronic component used for communication. The portable device body includes an upper case and a lower case, each having a cavity. A holding frame holds peripheral portions of the upper case and the lower case so that the upper case and the lower case are connected 10 to each other with the cavities opposed to each other.